

Anxiety Group for Teens

Do you have a teen who struggles with feelings of anxiousness? Does your teen worry excessively about peer relationships, testing, or before events? Is your teen able to balance among family time, friendships, academics, and extracurricular activities effectively? Have you found that your teen often procrastinates? Does your teen avoid discussing their future or expresses fear of the unknown? Teen years can be challenging, and overwhelming times filled with many transitions. Even milestones such as getting their driver's license or transitioning to a new school environment can create feelings of stress. Our group will give your teens time and space to learn and explore how to manage their feelings of anxiety through a series of topics utilizing evidence-based Cognitive Behavioral Therapy techniques.

Topics include:

- Gain an understanding of anxiety including the connection between thoughts, feeling and behaviors.
- Develop healthy coping and relaxation skills such as breathing, visualizations, mindfulness, thought stopping, and progressive muscle relaxation.
- Learn self-care to prevent anxiety through proper exercise, adequate sleep, and balanced diet.
- Develop time management skills to include family, friends, academics, and other interests without sacrificing self-care.
- Learn how to resolve conflicts through effective communications.
- Cope with future stressors of college, workforce, increase independence, and long-distance friendships.
- Learn to identify types of anxiety such as general, social and testing and phobias.

Our last night will present an opportunity for teens to lead discussions in topics of interests as well as create a self-care tool kit

The actual curriculum and activities will change every season, but these are core topics covered.

Parent Testimonial

"I just wanted to say how amazed I've been with your social skills summer camp, and the immediate results I've seen in E. Really, I wasn't sure what to expect since we'd never done this type of class before, but she's been super excited after each session. I've seen a real improvement in her manners, her ability to handle frustrating situations without losing her cool, and with accepting "no" for an answer. With the dramatic improvement I've seen in her coping skills, I will do whatever it takes to keep her in social skills classes this fall. This is truly an investment that is showing immediate and drastic results!"
